

OTD 704 : Principles of Education and Communication

The purpose of this course is to develop student's teaching and professional communication skills. This course provides the foundation for educating individuals in a variety of settings on the unique value of occupational therapy in improving the health and well-being of persons, groups, and populations.

Credits 3